ABOUT AFRODAD

The African Forum and Network on Debt and Development (AFRODAD) is a Pan-African Civil Society Organisation with national partners in 16 African countries and 3 regional economic blocks. Our mandate is to enhance public participation on public debt to strengthen accountability, governance, and promote responsible borrowing among African Governments. We work to ensure African continent do not slide back into being heavily indebted thus we focus on influencing African governments to institute and implement policies and practices for sustainable development and eradication of poverty through development and implementation of sustainable debt policies; transparent, accountable and efficient mechanisms for mobilisation and utilisation of domestic resources; as well as effective use of international public finance.

We are pleased to announce the 2023, July-December Internship intake. We are looking for a team of interns who have a strong interest in issues of Africa's debt management, domestic resources, and private and public finance to join our team.
